THE NEW YORK PILOT LAW .- Among the petitions before the United States Senate, is one from the regular pilots of this port, asking for the repeal of the law which imprudently threw open the busicause of this petition is properly laid before the Senate, it will be granted. It is to be hoped that the pilots will have justice extended to them. And in the course to be pursued by the Senate, we earnestly trust that the idea of constituting the pilots as guarda costas, will be taken into consideration, and acted upon. It is time that something of the kind was done, to prevent smuggling.

TEMPLETON'S CONCERT FOR THE POOR .- Owing to a misunderstanding relative to the hour for which the meeting was called at the Mayor's office last evening, to make arrangements for Mr. Templeton's concert on behalf of the poor, it was adjourned to this evening, to be held at the same place and at the same hour, six o'clock, when it is hoped a full attendance will be had.

PARK.—We have rarely seen a more brilliant and daz-zting array of beauty, wealth, fashion and refinement, than was presented last evening on the occasion of Mrs. Charles Kean's benefit, by the boxes of Old Drury. The whole house was, indeed, crowded to excess, by warm and devoted admirers of the highly gifted artists, who have by their talents and exertions reached the topmost pinnecle of fame. The first play was Colman's "Iron Chest," in which Mr. Kean achieved one of the groatest triumphs we have had the pleasure of recording for a long time. His delineation of the character of the disappointed, conscience-stricken, misanthropic Mortimer, be-trayed an intimate knowledge of the workings of human tion-it was marked by great power and deep feeling-it omething more than a mere artistical performance was something more than a mere artistical performance—it was the effort of true genius. His sililoques were listened to with breathless interest by the enthusiastic and excited anditory, and the Jast scene of the fifth act was thrilhing, grand and startling. Mrs. Kean's personation of the boy Wilford was most admirable, and deserves high commendation. The delightful musical drama of "Don Cæser De Bazan," concluded the evening's entertainment. Mr. and alrs. Kean's performance of the hero and heroine was inimitable, and will ever be remembered with pleasure by those who witnessed it. At the conclusion of the performance the rapturous applause of the audience called the Reans before the curtain. Mr. Kean tharked them for their kindness and patronage, and announced that their next engagement would commence on the 7th of January, when Shakapeare's Richard III, would be preduced in a style of unparalleled splendor and amagificence. The management of the theatre had with great liborality gone to the expense of having new scenery painted—and every scene would not only be entirely new, but strictly correct. He, himself, had been at an expense of some $6000, in furatishing the proper costumes for every character in the play. If it succeeded it was his intention to produce "King John," and several other plays in the same style. Loud and enthusiastic applause followed this announcement. The Keans make their last appearance until the 7th of January, to night, when the "tron Chest" and "Don Cæsarde Bazzan," will be repeated.

in their usual good style. This evening the entertain ments are for the benefit of Mr. J. P. Waldron, a gentle-man who has been long and favorably known to the playgoers of the Bowery, as treasurer of the establishment. The bill of itself is one of the best and most original ever presented on the boards of any theatre. The evening commences with the capital comedy of "Charles the Second," in which Mr. Scott plays Captain Copp—after which a new comidietta written by Mr. N. H. Bannister, the popular author of "Putnam," &c., entitled the "Ore. in this interesting state of affairs may be of service in pointing out some mode of settling the difficulty. After pointing out some mone or setting the dimenity. After this the laughable comedy "In Every Body's Mess," will be played, and the evening closes with the richest of all extraveganzes, "Too; and Jerry." Such a bill as this is saldom stem, and when in addition, it is for the benefit of a man so long and favorably known as Mr. Weldron, we predict an overflowing house. Graman Opena.—The opera of "the Swiss Family" was performed lest night to a small house. The opera is well got up, but we fear will prove a failure in a pe

CHRISTIAN HUBER.—This distinguished violoncellist left town yesterday for Philadelphia, where he goes to fulfal an engagement at the Chesnut street Theatre. Wees. Huber has given several concerts here, which have been attended by the élite and musical of the city. He is a player of surprising sweetness and skill, and tradinces the most wonderful, astonishing, and brilliant effects on his instrument. Mons. Huber is, also a distinguished member of the Conservatoire, in Paris, and a composer of rare excellence. We doubt not his extraordinary abilities will be appreciated by a Philadelphia audience.

Trial of Engine.—One of the large engines recently built in Philadelphia for the Corporation, which arrived in this city a few days ago, had its powers tried at three o'clock yesterday by fire company No. 38, at Burling slip, in presence of a large concourse of persons assembled to witness the trial, and it would seem not to have given entire satisfaction. Some insist that the volume of water it throws is not greater than that thrown by the ungines now in use in this city, and that the only advantage it than, is that its span is three feet more than that of the common engine, or in other words, that it throws the water three feet higher; but as a drawback upon this small advantage, the stream of water thrown by it, sometimes breaks before it reaches its destination. It is said, however, these defects can be easily romedied; but be tent as it may, some of the firemen present were loud in their complaints against the whole scheme of building those engines, and were uncharitable enough to say it was got up for party purposes, and to grality private individuals.

Found his Coat.—The green youth who was swindled out of his coat on Thursday, found it yesterday pledged at a pawnbruker's for $6. He probably will not want to see the "wild beasts" again.

HUDSON STREET RAILROAD.—A meeting of two committees from the Board of Assistants, and friends and opponents of the measure, was held at the Board of Assistant's room, on the subject of the flusion street railroad. Speeches were made on both sides and the meeting adjourned till Friday next. We very much doubt if the plan is a feasible one. We have a full report of the meeting, which is crowded out on account of the foreign news.

Honzery.—The store door of Robert Buloid & Co., was found open last evening by John De Mott, of the Insurance Watch, and upon entering the money which had been in the oraw was gone and the safe had been tried. Frobaby some rascal had concealed himself for the purpose of robbing the store.

Grand Lorcesy at Sea.—The bing Argus, of Boston, arrived here on Thursday, shout neon, from St. Domingo, with a cargo of log wood and coffee, consigned to Mr. Starks W. Lewis, No. 26 Goenties alip. She anchored in the stream, when Mr. Lewis went on board to examine the bilts of lading, and found one bill, murked $220, in five dollar gold pieces—but on looking into the bag he only found solo, making a deficiency of $190. Mr. Lewis thought this rather a strange way of doing business, and called in the sid of Captain Dill, of the first Ward, assisted by two of this efficient officear, Connell and Casey, who immediately wont to work, by searching the brig, when they found $190, in five dollar gold pieces, snugly stowed away on the starboard side in one of the lockers, at the head of the Captain's berth. The mate, Goorge Pendleton, is arrested for the Ierceny. It appears that when five days out the captain of the brig. Let Bedy Snatcher Bailed.—Eugene F. Hutchinson was examined by Justice Roome yesterday, but refused to answer any questions, by advice of counsel. The justice held him to bail in the sum of $500 to answer. Dr. Charles F. Lee, No. 2021 Hudson street, went his bail, and he was discharged. Dennis M'Carthy, the keeper of the Potters' Field on Randni's Island, was examined in the above case, and asked by Justice Roome if he knew the prisoner, or had ever seen him before, which answer he retused, stating it might criminate himself. This certaioly is a very funny answer, to come from a man who is appointed by the Corporation to protect the dead. Reabery of Jeweiry and Money.—Madam Dulux, (an, old French woman) living at No. 116 William street, (text door to where Housyman, Parkinson, and Cupid the barge robbers, congregated to plan their robberies) was robbed yesterday afternoon between 3 and 5 o'clock, by some "meak," of 12 silver forks, 12 silver spoons—a small French box, containing a quantity of jewelry, two diamond rings, the ministure of her departed husband, also $200 in gold and silver. No arrest. Singular Recovery of a Watch.—The residence of Mr. Benjanin F. Harrison, of Newark, N. J., was robbed on the 18th of September, 1844, and property of over $100 stolen, amongst which was a silver lepine watch, independent seconds, valud at $40. Mr. Harrison was strolling down Chatham street yesterday, when he spied his watch in a jewelry store, kept by George Rogers, No. 30 Chatham street. He immediately procured officer Wm. H. Mark Ann Massex recalled.—Witness went to reside with the prisoner and his daughter, at No. 27 John st., in the month of May, 1844, and remained with them till the latter part of February, 1845. They carried on the business of gold beating in the cellar of the premises.—A man named Howell did the work—no one else, as witness was aware of. The basiness of gold beating ceased about a week before witness left; witness never saw Smith engaged at working in the business of gold beating. [Prosecution here proposed to show, by this witness, that Smith gave orders that no one should be allowed to go into a certain room, which evidence was objected to by the defence, and ruled out by the Court.]

Windown deposed that he was lessee of the premises No. 27 John street; that he knew the prisoner at the bar, who occupied the premises referred to about 15 months; they were hired by prisoner; daughter; both of them lived there; Smith, the prisoner, paid me some money for rent of the premises; the business of gold beating was carried on in the building; an old man used to work there; the sign of Miller & Co. was in front of the building; witness has seen Miller there; Smith and Miller were almost always thgether; witness never saw either of them at work; witness kept a grocery store the next door to them; witness has seen Parkinson there, but could not say whether he had seen Davis there or net; their time expired on the 1st of May; but they moved away from the house about the middle of April; the

After some discussion on this point, in the course of which Mr. Granam took occasion to deal out a goodly share of abuse regainst the press, a paper of the following import was drawn up and signed by the prisoner and the respective counsel on both sides:

"It having been suggested to the Court that the trial cannot be concluded before the expiration of the present term, the prisoner and his counsel concurring in that term, the prisoner and his counsel concurring in that drawn, agreeable to a joint motion of counsel for the prosecution and the accused, the prisoner himself assenting to such withdrawel."

The Juror was accordingly withdrawn and the Court then adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Naval Orders.—We were informed at the Navy Yard, in Brooklyn, yesterday, that orders had been received from Warhington, to discontinue the ordinary church services, which it has heretofore been customary to observe within the walls of this establishment. We do not pretend to know the cause of this singular movement, unless it be that one of the chaplains attached to some vessel laid up for the winter, is to do duty on board his particular ship; thereby dispensing with the tabernacle or conventicle belonging to the yard.

Ferry of the yard.

Ferry of the yard an early hour, yesterday morning, two gentlemen of respectable standing in Brooklyn, were unprovokedly assailed by a parry of rowdies, at the Fulton Ferry, on the New York side of the river, and very roughly handled. They would, in all probability, have patiently submitted to this unmerited treatment, (for the purpose of avoiding inture trouble and inconvenience,) had they not been subjected to the additional mortification of being arrested by some of the star police of New York, in company with the ruffians who attacked them, and taken to the Station House in Gold st. At this juncture, Mr. Reynolds, one of the City Inspec. of New York, in company with the ruffians who at tacked them, and taken to the Station House in Gold st. At this juncture, Mr. Reynolds, one of the City Inspectors of the Democracy" held a great meeting at Tammany Hell, last night, James T. Brady, Esq. in the chair. The Oregon question was the principal subject of consideration. The course of the administration and of General Cass, at d the democratic Senators who sustained him in the late debate in the Senate, was warmly approved. We are compelled, by the press of foreign news, and other metter, to defer our full report of the proceedings of the meeting.

Police Items.—The young man whose arrest was mentioned yesterday, for a gross misdemennor—and who, at the cells, gave his name as William Smith, and then as Charles Hoadley—on being examined before the police magistrates yesterday morning, called himself Charles Hoadley Barnum. He was required to find sureties in the sum of five hundred dollars to answer the complaint at the next Court of Sessions; in default of which he was committed to the county jail. His gold watch was (by some legal process we are unacquainted with) taken from his possession, and retained by the public authorities. We mentioned the other day that the house of Mr. Slade, in Remsen street, was entered, and two valuable coats taken therefrom. We learn that Mr. Slade proceeded to New York the next morning, and found both at r pawnbroker's shop, where the thief pledged them for a few dollars.

MONEY MARKET.

There was a general falling off in quotations for stocks to-day. The banks are rapidly contracting, and the money market is daily becoming tighter and tighter Penn. o's declined? per cent, Vicksburg ; Morris Ca-nal ; Farmers' Loan 1; Long Island, 1; Canton ; Eric Railroad, †; Stonington †; Norwich and Worcester 1‡; Reading Railroad †. The sales were limited at the decline, and the market closed very heavy. The war panic has become a bank panic, and there at present appears very little probability of an improvement in prices, of any consequence.
By the arrival of the steam ship Acadia, at Boston from Liverpool, we have advices from that port of the 4th, and from London to the 3d inst. inclusive. From all parts of Europe our advices are fifteen days later than those previously received. The news generally, in a commercial point of view, is rather unfavorable. Cotton had failen off about id. to id. per lb., and flour had receded as per barrel. The London money market continued very much depressed, and Consols had declined about 2 per cent; but just previous to the departure of the steam-ship prices slightly recovered. The railway panic stil continued, and quotations for some of the established lines had been much reduced. The Bank of England had not altered the rate of interest, and money could be obtain ed at three and a half per cent. The advices from the continent in relation to financial affairs do not vary materially from those received by the Cambria. The pressure continued in full force, and much embarrassment was anticipated. So far as our political relations with Great Britain are concerned, the news is highly favorable and interesting. The people of Great Britain take a more sensible and reasonable view of the Oregon ques-tion than the government do, and we place great reliance upon the influence of the financial and commercial classes upon the government of that country in this dis-pute. The returns of the Bank of England for the week ending Nov. 22, compared with the returns of the previous week, exhibit a decrease of circulation of £569,770, an increase of public deposits of £638.334, an increase of £411,718, a decrease of bullion of £10,585, an increase of the rest of £7,476, and an increase of the reserve in the banking department of notes and coin of £521,425.

The foreign trade of Boston, for November, 1845, com

These returns show an increase in the value of merchandise imported of $551,487, equal to about sixty-two per cent; while the increase in the amount of duties has only been about twenty-one per cent. This difference in the increase of imports, and increase in duties, can be attributed to the falling off in the importation of goods paying a very high rate of duty, and shows that the avorage rate of duty under the present tariff act, is becoming gradually reduced. The Secretary of the Treasury, in his recent report, alludes to this annual raduction in the average rate of duty, but draws no con-clusions from the fact, to show the ultimate effect of this reduction upon the revenue from imports. Since the present tariff has been in force (a little more than three years), there has been a decrease in the average rate of duty upon imports of about six per cent. According to the recent report of the Secretary of the Treasury, the average rate of duty upon our imports for the year ending June 30, 1845, was a fraction above twenty-nine per cent. This year, according to returns so far received, the decrease is likely to be as large as in any previous one, and the average will in that case be about twenty-eight per cent. This reduction in the average rate of duty, in connection with the reduced importation twenty-eight per cent. This reduction in the average rate of duty, in connection with the reduced importation, must have a very material effect upon the revenue from customs, and reduce it below the current expenditures. It will be a very difficult thing to reconcile all these important matters, in adjusting a new tariff. There is no doubt but that the tariff would ultimately regulate itself. At the rate of decrease realized within the past three years, in the same length of time the average rate of duty, under the present act, would not be above twenty three per cent. This would bring the standard nearly down to the revenue becomes a matter of much doubt whether the tariff undergoes any alterations or modifications, or not. The increased and additional expenses of the govern-ment will require a larger revenue than usual, and it will require more than an ordinary revenue tariff to pro. cure the additional amount. There will at all events be nothing done in the matter until late in the session until our foreign relations assume a more quiet state, and our position with Great Britain is more clearly defined. It would be a very judicious thing to expend the whole of our surplus revenue in building fortifications and in increasing our steam navy, if the expenditure could then cease, as it would distribute an immense amount of money through the country, do away with the fears and anxieties of the banks in relation to the disposal of the government deposits, and give the administration a glorious opportunity to carry into operation the Sub-Treasury. The tariff could then be modified, if necessary, to meet the current expenditures of the government, as the surplus would be out of the way, and the annual expenses, although increased, could be bet-ter defined. The first object of the party in power, should be to get rid of the surplus that has caused so much financial difficulty, and will continue to embarrass the banks, and all those depending upon them in the slightest degree, so long as the government has a dollar to deposit in any ban k. Some doubts have recently been expressed in relation to the payment of the semi-annual interest on the debt of Pennsylvania, due on the first of February; but the statements that have emanated from the Treasury De. partment of the State, confirm the belief we have always entertained, that the semi-annual payment will be met promptly. The State Treasurer issued his circular on the 6th inst, at which time he had available funds in the Treasury to the amount of $384,786 09. During the first twelve days of the present month he has received, over and above all expenditures, upwards of $80,000 A considerable sum will be (ss is always the case) brought in from the North and West by the mem-bers of the Legislature on the first of January.

There is now due from the city and county of Philadelphia $243,792 71, all of which will unquestionably be paid about the first of January. There is also due from the rich counties of Lancaster, Bucks, and Northamp. ton, a further sum of $105,000, which will also be paid, without fail. The above sums alone, will place in the Treasury over $800,000, and the remaining $100,000 will be received from Collectors on the public works, the maller counties, and a great variety of other sources.

7-Pompeii, near Naples, as it is at present. This City, destroyed by an eruption of Mount Vesuvius, in the seventy-third year of our era, is at present considered as the wonder of Italy. It may be said, that the destiny of centuries had conserved that city as a model of the spirit, the customs, the religion and the government of the Ancients. Our mind is stricken at the view of those houses, those temples and the form seen there. The whole amounces the traces of that mighty genius by whose commands the walls of Prestum, the towers of Capua, and the delicious retreats of the Sybaris were erseted.
